

WET TUMBLING IS BACK!

When the material for the Newsletter gets sparse, I have to come up with something. Since one of my favorite things to do is reload and I've done it for 40 years...I actually have a subject I can write something intelligent about.

This month I'm sharing with you a recent phenomena in the hobby. We all know that brass suitable to reload with has to be sound and clean.

Sound means no thinned out case walls, no cracks or splits, and no major dents. Clean means no grit on the brass that scratches and ruins sizing dies.

If a reloader follows those rules, the resulting product isn't necessarily as pretty as a box of new shiny factory ammo. In the last 20 years "tumblers" have been used by reloaders to pretty up their brass and make it look nearly as good as new. First wet tumblers

Thumler's Tumbler Model B Fast. ($180)

(rock tumblers) were used, but these were mostly replaced by dry tumblers that use dry corncob or walnut hull media. These "tumblers" vibrate the media and brass together to make them shiny.

The recent phenomena is a return to to wet tumblers using a new media, stainless steel pins...even though they require a drying period and a bit more work, they polish inside, outside even primer pockets! What would make reloaders do something unessential that takes more effort? When your friend's reloads look better than yours, it's a pride thing. Besides bling, is addictive, I'm afraid.

Suggested recipe: A 2-second squirt of Dawn liquid dish soap, an empty 45 ACP case full of LemiShine, water to 1" from the top, 5lbs of stainless steel pin media, tumble for 4hrs.

SPEAKERS ON JULY 17
AT THE SAN JUAN WILDLIFE FEDERATION CLUB MEETING:

The New Mexico Wildlife Federation's John Cornell will address the club at the July 17th general meeting regarding the mission and focus of NMWF, both the political and wildlife aspects of the organization. He will be campaigning for new members.

Also, CEO Rick Wallace, of San Juan Regional Medical Center, will speak to us on the National Healthcare Bill and it's impact on SJRMC and us.

Range brass before and after.

More examples of the addiction! Notice that the inside of the cases and primer pockets are equally clean and bright.
